Associate professor in architecture & design at aalborg University

Martabolette possesses a unique personality with a very open and creative attitude combined with the ability to focus and manage even fuzzy projects in a way that all participating parts feel comfortable and want to give their best for the project. She is a very competent networker and is good at bringing people together to develop mutual interests and profitable concepts. I had the pleasure of working together with Martabolette in setting up her Design-Match project, where several institutions, more than 20 companies and approximately 100 design students worked together and developed new and promising design concepts. A project that Martabolette descreetely managed in a way that everybody felt comfortable and succesful.less
